Dear friends,

In case you missed our last email, there have been some exciting changes in the last month with our family and Resource Consultants, Inc. We have moved from Arizona to Oklahoma! Some of you have expressed concern as to why we chose to move.

As many of you know, my husband Patrick and I have lived in beautiful Arizona for about 30 years. We are both from Minnesota originally, and have always loved gardening and being around water and trees. We wanted that again. Our daughter, Sarah has lived in Fort Worth Texas for about three years and every time we go visit her we loved it more. The reason we chose Oklahoma is because we can be very close to Sarah , (just an hour and a half across the border) and still have the same beautiful landscapes; and the real-estate taxes are lower here than in Texas.

We sold our Payson mountain home a few months ago and bought a great place with a few acres close to Ardmore, Oklahoma. Pat has been living here since then waiting for me to join him. Last month Pat and I sold our Tempe Arizona home. As many of you know, moving is no small task.. We had two good sized homes and huge garages as well as a business to pack up and move from AZ. Although we sold, gave away or tossed a lot of our personal possessions we still had a full semi-truck as well as several trips with rented moving trucks delivering to our new home and to RCI. , we will surely be unpacking here for quite a while. FYI We LOVE it here! Our phone numbers have all been transferred to the new phone service and we still have the same web site www.buysilvernow.com . We even beat our projected deadline of reopening on February 1st by one day!

Arizona has been a wonderful place for us and our company and we will miss being able to see the friends and clients we have there in person. However, we have always been a national metals company, so other than a change in mailing address, nothing has changed in how you can contact us or do business. In fact, I predict this will be better than ever!

Now let's get down to what's happening in precious metals. Gold has regained a little from its recent pullback and is again running around 1315.00 spot. We could see another small pullback or two before it gets some traction and starts to move again. If investor sentiment goes more bearish in the next few weeks, the bottom will be established and you had better be ready for the rally ahead. We recommend picking up a few ounces when you can but if you see a pullback load up!

Because gold is looking more bullish than a street festival in Pamplona, Spain.

Gold is Forming a “Bull Flag”

What’s that? The pole of a “bull flag” is formed by a vertical rise in a stock or commodity (in this case, gold). After that initial surge higher, gold is now consolidating, drifting lower like a flag on a pole.

The Fear Trade Drives Money into Gold

What's driving this? Well, here's another chart, from the World Gold Council, showing the breakdown of WHERE the ETFs doing most of the buying are located. It might shed some light ...

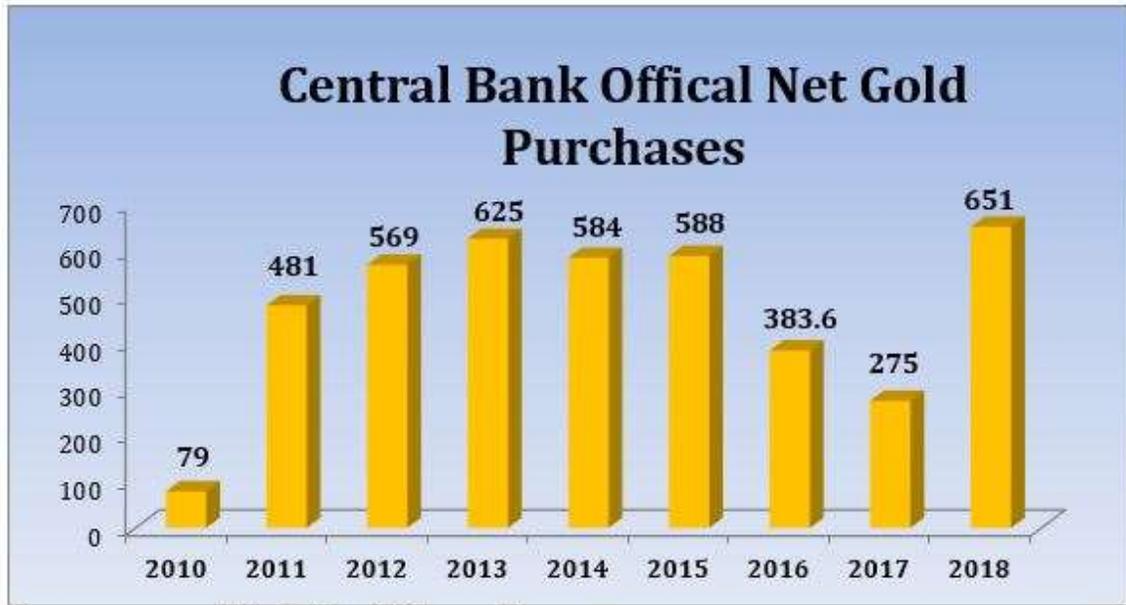

You can see that it's the North American gold ETFs that are scooping gold up by the bucket-load. I strongly believe this is the Fear Trade in action. It's got investors worried and worked up over how the Political Civil War in Washington will play out, and how it will affect investments generally and Wall Street specifically.

I've told you about the political civil war. Republicans and Democrats in D.C. hate each other so much, they'd rather see the country fail than each other succeed. That's scary for ordinary folks. But it's bullish for gold.

Central Banks Are Buying Gold Hand Over Fist

You've probably heard that some central bankers refer to gold as a "barbarous relic." Why, they wonder aloud on the boob tube, would anyone want to own something so outdated?

For the answer to that, we should ask central bankers. They are buying gold hand over fist, and last year pushed their purchases to a new record, as you can see from this chart ...

Data source: World Gold Council

In the final quarter of 2018 alone, central banks purchased as much as 195 metric tons (6,269,396 troy ounces) of gold, the most for any quarter on record! For the year, they added a stunning 651 metric tons.

Holy moly, why are they doing that?

I'll tell you why. Because central bankers are worried about the same things that are keeping us all up at night: Trade wars. Sanctions. Currency wars. Insurmountable debts. And more!

So yeah, central banks are buying gold. Shouldn't you?

GOLD

CATEGORY ONE

INSURANCE

The preceding article we found interesting. Why are Central Banks poo-pooing gold as senseless to own while quietly buying up as much as they can get their mitts on? One reason could be they know its worth! Our national debt is over 22 Trillion dollars! $22,000,000,000,000. and it is climbing at a dizzying rate!! The US National debt per Citizen is $67,019. The US National debt per Taxpayer is $179,907. Where do you think the payment will come from? Maybe, they feel the best way to get rid of debt is to devalue it. Make our dollar worth-less. Modern Monetary Theory, MMT says debt is nothing of matter or concern. Just keep printing and giving out debt. If this does not concern you, smell the coffee! IT'S TIME TO WAKE UP! This is the perfect storm to drive precious metals values to new highs.

Modern Gold bullion coins and bars offer the lowest premiums. These gold pieces are normally available in one in one ounce, half ounce, quarter ounce and tenth ounce sizes. The most popular of these are the one ounce coins and bars. Physical Gold has been and still is treasured as a private way to store wealth or pass that wealth on to your children.

A couple of my favorite Warren Buffett quotes are “Wall Street is the only place that people ride to in a Rolls Royce to get advice from those who take the subway.” And “Opportunities come infrequently. When it rains gold, put out the bucket, not the thimble.”

A roll of 20 1oz Gold coins or 50 1/10oz Gold coins can fit easily in the palm of your hand. It can be bought, sold or traded very simply and the value will never go to zero as many other investments have been known to do. If fact, if you are doing well in this longest bull market in history wouldn't it just make sense to take some of those profits and invest it in hard money? As any investor knows, no market goes up forever. What if the market crashed tomorrow? Might you be in the same position that many good folks were in when the crashed in 2008 if the bull market ended now? It left countless people financially crushed without a retirement and many never recovered. Don't lose what you have by not getting out what you need to before it falls. Diversification is the safest route. You can roll over your retirement account into a precious metals IRA too. Let us know if this is something you'd like to learn more about. Call us to discuss your goals we can and will be happy to help you no matter what your budget. Just start. 800-494-4149

SILVER CATEGORY ONE INSURANCE

The brightest and most undervalued of the white metals is Silver. The gold to silver ratio, meaning how many ounces of silver it takes to buy an ounce of gold is at an ridiculous high. Right now you would need about 83 ounces of silver to buy one ounce of gold. When the ratio is this out of whack it usually results in the value of silver rising. (so does gold , just not as much percentage wise. ) Silver has the highest thermal and electrical conductivity of ANY metal.

This precious metal is needed and used for so much beyond just bullion coins and jewelry . It fills a huge demand in industry and medicine. Because silver has a melting point of 961.8 C it is a key component in jet engines, also to reduce friction, a layer of silver between the ball bearing and it's housing improves the lifetime and performance of the engine. Over 36 million ounces of silver are used each year in the automotive industry alone. Solar panels, photography, 3D printing, long life batteries all need silver. Most of us know that silver is a natural anti-biotic and many of us use colloidal silver for viral infections or healing wounds. Before refrigerators were invented people used containers coated in silver to keep liquids fresh. Silver chloride is used by cosmetics to companies in products such as personal deodorant since it prevents the growth of bacteria. Silver is used in lab coats to help prevent cross-infection by hospital staff cutting down dangerous microorganisms such as E.coli and MRSA.

According to the Silver Institute, Silver demand from industrial fabrication which is responsible for about 60% of silver's total demand is forecast to rise moderately this year.

Bottom line: Silver is needed, it is undervalued and you can own it now at bargain basement price which are not likely to get any lower. We recommend picking up as much silver as you can at these current prices. Monster boxes of 500 coins or rounds are very popular but we offer silver in most any quantity. Don't forget about the bags of 90% silver pre 65 U.S. silver coins either! Silver is also a great way to introduce your kids into saving and investing in something bright and solid for their future.

PLATINUM

Platinum, more rare than silver or gold is another very undervalued metal at time. With an extremely high melting point of 1,768 C Platinum is used to coat missile nose cones, and jet fuel engines . Along with electrical, chemical and electronical industries, platinum is also used by the glass, petroleum and jewelry industries. You can now own an ounce of Physical Platinum for less than $900 per ounce! However, with prices this low we are beginning to see some coins becoming unavailable and slight delays in in certain items at these prices.

The market is beginning to make some nice moves now. On 2/19/19 Spot prices of Gold moved up 20.60 , Silver up .22 Platinum up $14.80 and Palladium up $48.80 per ounce!

As we mentioned before, we might see a couple more slight dips in the metals market. Be prepared to swoop up what you can! If you own metals and are ready to liquidate some of your holdings, we will be happy to help you with that as well. 800-494-4149 is our number. There are no commissioned sales people and you needn't feel embarrassed to ask us any question. We are here to help you and we value your business.

One more quote from Warren Buffett "Someone's sitting in the shade today because someone planted a tree a long time ago." Please, think of your kid's financial future and help them know the value of real money. It is always nice to have a client call to introduce us to a younger family member and help them get started in their precious metals portfolio. Having a tangible investment of their own can start them on the way of savings unlike any other!
